

Update on Rev. Tubuwa

Rev. Tubuwa travels to the many refugee camps in Uganda to visit the churches, assess the situations, and mobilize and develop elders and deacons as leaders. To date, Uganda has been welcoming the one million plus refugees from Sudan. Read about the Uganda Country Refugee Response Plan

From August 2014 to May 2018 Rev. Tubuwa was enrolled as a student at the African Bible University in Kampala, Uganda. There was a joyous celebration at his graduation on Saturday May 26, 2018. He graduated from ABU and was awarded with BA degree in Christian Community Leadership, with the aim to go and serve the community. During semester breaks and vacations, he ministered to the people in the Boroli Refugee camp in Uganda. Following his graduation, the Presbyterian Church of South Sudan assigned him to minister to refugee camps in Uganda and Kenya.

In the Fall of 2017, in response to dire reports of famine in South Sudan, First Presbyterian sent $4000 to PCOSS through the Presbyterian Relief and Development Agency (PRDA) to help with food aid in South Sudan and refugee camps.

Another $4000 was sent to a non-profit organization called The Boma Assistance Group. Trinity South Sudan Ministry, organized by Trinity Presbytery in South Carolina, USA, created The Boma Assistance Group who can transfer funds to South Sudan. Bill Andress is one of the organizers of this organization and he wrote, "Boma can mean several things: it is a town in South Sudan; it is a state in South Sudan; but mostly it means a village. It (the Boma Assistance Group) will support Trinity and other groups that work in the rural areas where the need is greatest."
